

Sharing and informing about Urbanisation in China

January 16, 2015

AI Chi-han
ELOSUA Miguel
GOULARD Sebastien

Sharing and informing about Urbanisation

Dissemination tools & impacts

Dissemination tools

➤ Website

➤ Blog

➤ Collections of pictures and working papers

Dissemination tools

➤ Website: a new version launched last September
Focusing on the consortium's activities

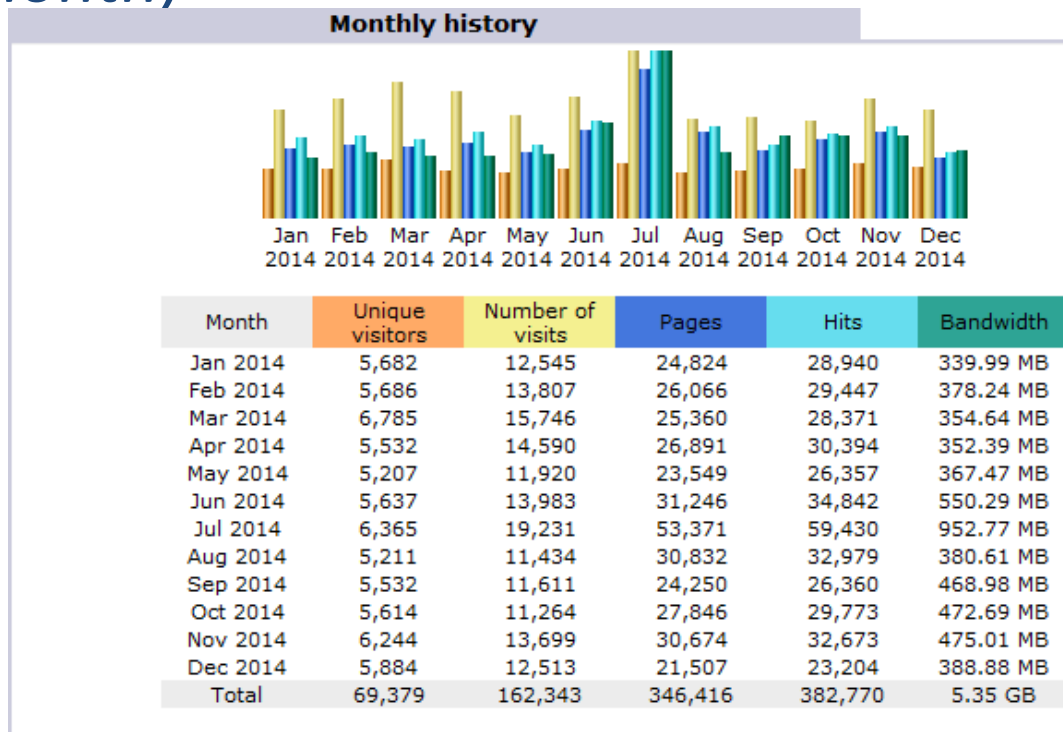

Dissemination tools

➤ Blog

-a steady flow of visitors (about 5,000 visitors per month)

Dissemination tools

➤ Blog:

A newsletter (500 subscribers including well known scholars)

But maintaining the blog is time-consuming.

What will happen after the project's closure?

Dissemination tools

➤ Working papers

Now, 4 working papers available on open access.

Further working papers can be extracted from previous deliverables

Policy briefs may also be uploaded?

Dissemination tools

➤ Working papers

Uploaded on Hal, the French open access academic platform.

Referenced on Google scholar and RePEc (Research Papers in Economics)

Dissemination tools

Peter Daniels, Pengfei Ni. Urbanisation and changes in the sectoral structure of economic development: the scale of the manufacturing sector in Chinese cities and the shift towards service industry. UrbaChina working paper no.2 February 2014. 2014.

Downloaded 41 times from Hal and 20 times from RePEc

Dissemination tools

The collective book

Collective book in preparation
Edward Elgar

Dissemination: notable impacts

- UrbaChina mentioned in several studies:

Carrapatoso, A. and M. Well, 'Interregional climate cooperation EU-China relations as a success story?', in Carrapatoso, A. and E. Kürzinger (Eds.), Climate resilient development. Participatory solutions from developing countries, London: Routledge, pp.204-226.

Dissemination: notable impacts

Blog recognized by peers:

Posts published on the blog are quoted in several books and articles:

- Antholis, W. (2013), Inside out India and China local politics go global, Washington DC: The Brooking Institution
- Lees, L. (2014), 'Gentrification in the global south?'

in Parnell S., and S. Oldfield (Eds.), The Routledge handbook on cities of the Global south, Abingdon, Routledge, pp.506-521

Dissemination: notable impacts

Our opinion matters:

Our book and article reviews are taken into consideration:

... book review on Amazon

- Bracken, G. (2012), Aspects of Urbanization in China: Shanghai, Hong Kong, Guangzhou, Amsterdam: Amsterdam University Press

Dissemination: notable impacts

Policy briefs:

What to do? To strengthen our impact?

Thank you!

urbachina-edition@services.cnrs.fr

<http://urbachina.hypotheses.org/about>

www.urbachina.eu